New Bridge.

The covered bridge over the Pemigewasset river connecting the towns of Hill and Sanbornton was carried away by an ice jam March 22, 1913, at about 9:30 a. m. and stopped less than two miles down the river where it was set on fire by the servants of the Railroad Co. and totally destroyed.

The selectmen of the two towns met and provided a man and boat to ferry people across the river. This however did not meet the demands of the public, and through the public spirit of F. R. Woodward who for a nominal sum as rental built a ferry-boat which accommodated the traffic.

After several meetings of the selectmen of the two towns, and upon advice of counsel, it was found necessary to replace the bridge as soon as possible and to avoid delay, a special town meeting was not called. After consulting officials of towns that had recently built new bridges it was decided to employ Storrs & Storrs, bridge engineers, of Concord.

On account of the new conditions created by the dam at Franklin and to prevent, as far as possible, the destruction of the bridge in the future, it was found necessary to widen the channel of the river by placing the abutments back about twenty-five feet on each side, also raising the bridge seven feet clear higher than the old one.

Proposals for bids were sent out May 1, 1913. The following is a list of bids received May 15, 1913.

SUBSTRUCTURE.

J. W. Buswell,	$8,327 00
H. P. Cummings Construction Co.,	$10,387 00
John W. Dresser,	$8,344 90
J. E. Normandeau,	$10,256 00
United Construction Co.,	$9,200 00
A. S. Douglass,	$9,999 00

SUPERSTRUCTURE.

Pennsylvania Steel Co.,	$18,400 00
United Construction Co.,	$13,673 00
Canton Bridge Co.,	$13,875 00
Boston Bridge Co.,	$16,300 00

Contracts were awarded to John W. Buswell for substructure and to the United Construction Co. for superstructure, they being the lowest bidders.

The Hill abutment cost more than the Sanbornton abutment as more material was required.

Negotiations for some time have been and still are in progress with the parties responsible in the ownership and management of the dam at Eastman Falls in Franklin, as to the sum that justice requires them to pay for damage done. It is hoped that litigation may be avoided by their compliance with our reasonable demands.

Seventh Annual Report of the Superintendent of Schools.

To the School Board: Herewith is presented my first annual report as superintendent of your schools.

Of my work in the schools of Hill for the past five months the greatest problems have been at the Center. Conditions there, and the salary offered, have made it very difficult to get and keep a competent teacher. We now have the third teacher since the opening last September. It is hardly necessary to say that this amount of changing has meant much loss of schooling to the pupils, and poor return to the town for the money paid out.

There are at present thirteen children between the ages of 6 and 16 in this part of the town. I am informed of two more children who will be of school age next September. From the ages and grade of work of those now attending the school, and the probable increase by those who will become of school age, it appears that there will be about twelve pupils in this vicinity to attend school for at least three years. This number would make it inadvisable to transport the children to the Village were there accommodations in those schools. It therefore appears that a school must be maintained at the Center.

On behalf of the children who will attend this school I ask for improved accommodations for them. First, the building should be moved. The present location is wet and therefore unsanitary. Also, there are not sufficient or suitable grounds. Second, after being moved, the buildings should be repaired. This should include some replastering, and papering and painting the whole room. There should be a new blackboard. The entry should be separated from the shed, and sheathed. Finally, the outbuilding should be made wholesome.

These suggested changes and improvements will require the expenditure of about $300. It will be money well spent. The welfare of the children and a proper regard for them demand it. Why should not the children of this part of the town have suitable accommodations? On the other hand, a good school building and good schools here would be a benefit to the whole town. It would tend to increase the value of property at the Center, and offer more inducements to new residents, and help keep them and those you have.

Because of the many changes of teachers, and other conditions, the pupils in this school are below the standard for their ages. For this reason good teachers are needed. But we can not get good teachers and keep them for $8 or even $10 a week. Not only in the interest of the pupils, but as a matter of economy for the town, a higher salary should be paid here.

The good results of retaining a competent teacher for several years are seen at the Grammar school. This school stands well. The town has received more than a dollar's worth of service for every dollar paid the teacher. It should see to it that she be retained.

There will be few, if any, children to enter the primary school next September, and no need of sending any into the Grammar school. This condition will give an opportunity to offer the pupils of the eighth grade advance work for another year in this school. In addition to the present studies in which there is much more that the pupils could learn, one or more of the following studies might be taken with profit,—commercial arithmetic, book-keeping, elementary science, algebra, or a foreign language. I believe that it would be well to offer this opportunity to the pupils, and for them to seize it.

I wish that we could offer some work in manual training to the boys, and sewing and cooking to the girls in this school. The sewing could be carried on in the school room, but we have no suitable place for the carpenter work and cooking. Is there not some citizen who has a shop or shed the use of which he will give to the boys for this work? And are there not some housekeepers who will invite the girls to their homes and allow them the use of their kitchen an occasional afternoon? If so, then will not other citizens offer their services as instructors? It seems to me that there is a possibility of much good coming from service of this kind.

There is another opportunity for interest in the welfare of boys and girls to make itself manifest. This is by grading the playground back of the school building and fitting it up with simple but useful apparatus. A day's work by a few men and the boys would put the grounds in good condition; and a small sum of money would purchase the material for the apparatus; and another day's work by a few more men and the boys would put the apparatus in position. The return in enjoyment and healthful exercise by the boys and girls would repay the outlay of time and money many times over.

The grounds in front of the building can be made attractive and a source of public pride at a small expense.

The health of children which is of greater importance than their education demands that suitable furniture be put into the rooms. The best of furniture is harmful enough, but that which is not suited to the size of the children, that causes them to sit with their feet dangling, and may cause their bodies to become deformed should not be tolerated. I recommend the expenditure of $100 a year for new adjustable furniture until all of the old non-adjustable desks and chairs have been displaced.

I believe that we now have three teachers who, if kept, will bring our schools up to a standing which we all should desire. These teachers can be kept by being paid a salary equivalent to what they can get elsewhere. The additional amount of money it will take to retain their services will be as nothing compared with the benefits the children will receive by their continued work with them.

I am much interested in the schools of this town. It has been a pleasure to assist in making them better. Your interest and support have been a source of encouragement. In the work that is before us for the welfare of the boys and girls of Hill the co-operation of every citizen is invited.

Respectfully submitted.

WILLIAM L. COGGINS.
